Psycho Tornado – 25 Sep 2026

Iconic Scottish Punk Band Celebrates 50 Years with Brand New Album of 10 Blistering New Songs; Co-produced By Fay Fife and Martin Metcalfe (Goodbye Mr Mackenzie) with Eugene Reynolds

Legendary Punk Rockers The Rezillos are celebrating 50 years of Punk Rock with a brand new studio album, PSYCHO TORNADO. Released 25 September 2026 - on three shades of Vinyl, as well as CD & Digital - on Last Night From Glasgow (LNFG), featuring 10 (11 on the CD version) brand new songs (all written by Fife, Metcalfe and Reynolds) crackling with that same 100mph blistering energy that has been their signature sound.

Formed in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1976, The Rezillos emerged at the same time as other bands in the punk rock movement, in their own unique bubble of raucous B-Movie Sci Fi tinged brash energy, memorable tunes and their own inimitable approach to music and live performance. Led throughout by founder members Fay Fife and Eugene Reynolds, they exploded on to the punk scene with hit singles including Can't Stand My Baby and Top of The Pops (leading to memorable appearances on TV music shows Top of The Pops and The Old Grey Whistle Test).

Released in July 1978, The Rezillos' first studio album is now revered as a classic album of the original wave of British punk and was followed up in 2016 with Zero. 50 years after sending that first electrifying shiver through UK punk / pop scene, The Rezillos are proving they are still a creative force to be reckoned with. Psycho Tornado is co-produced by Fay Fife (who also fronts her own alt country band The Countess of Fife) and Martin Metcalfe (Goodbye Mr Mackenzie/The Filthy Tongues), with Eugene Reynolds.

Surviving various line-up changes, and temporarily morphing into The Revillos, The Rezillos continue to be a formidable force in live performance, with a dynamic stage presence in Fife and Reynolds, in demand in Europe and throughout the UK, at Festivals and in their own right.

THE REZILLOS... A BRIEF HISTORY

- * The Rezillos were Scotland's first punk band, playing their debut show 5th Nov 1976. They were and are innovators and one of a very few 'first generation' punk bands to make their mark on culture and music history.
- * The Rezillos' first independent single 'Can't Stand my Baby' is an acknowledged punk classic.
- * The Rezillos' blend of punk, gritty B movie rock & roll wrapped up in a pop art sensibility has gained them hit singles (including 'Top of the Pops'); an acknowledged punk rock classic album 'Can't Stand The Rezillos' & an ongoing reputation as an outstanding live act.
- * The Rezillos recorded 'Can't Stand The Rezillos' at The Power Station in New York with Bob Clearmountain producing. While they were in NY The Rezillos played legendary CBGB's & became part of New York's underground music scene.
- * The Rezillos have toured extensively in the UK, USA, Europe & Japan. In the early days they were special guests of The Ramones on a classic punk bill. The Rezillos (&The Revillos) have made frequent appearances on Top of The Pops & many other TV programmes including The Old Grey Whistle Test.
- * The Rezillos' creative energy and volatility collided in an early end to the first stage of their career - with a blistering show at Glasgow Apollo.
- * The Rezillos released a successful live album then morphed into the extreme art pop of The Revillos, releasing a string of successful singles and album Rev Up
- * Since then The Rezillos reformed & have incorporated both Rezillos and Revillos material - both old and new.
- * The Rezillos/Revillos have released 5 studio albums plus numerous live albums and compilations.
- * They release a further new album 'Psycho Tornado' on Last Night from Glasgow on the 25th September 2026.
- * Fay Fife & Eugene Reynolds are founder members of the Rezillos & drive the creative and performance ethic of the band to this day.
